Disability Equality Training

This course is a participatory process where people are introduced to the real issues and discrimination facing disabled people with a view to them changing their behaviour, policies and practices. It is aimed at people who have limited knowledge of disability or as a refresher course for people who have some awareness.

Our course has been designed and delivered by disabled people who understand the reality of living in a disabling society.

Course Includes:

- The legal definition of disability
- Myths and misconceptions of disability
- What the models of disability are why they are important to understand
- Barriers disabled people face in society
- The importance of language and avoiding assumptions
- Understanding the law in relation to disability

Having autistic people to share their lived experiences really made the training special. So much better than just being told a list of information.

ZEST

'This training has been hands down one of the best training experiences I have ever had. I enjoyed the fact the training was led people with lived experience of Autism and it not only been an eye opener but has given me much food for thought'.
'There was lots of opportunity to participate and room for discussions, you have created a nice informal learning environment which I really enjoyed'.

Autism Insight Training

Our training is delivered by Autistic adults and gives them the opportunity to give personal, engaging and valuable insight. They come from different parts of our community and share insight into challenging misconceptions and stereotypes surrounding Autism.

This training is for organisations and businesses to help them confidently interact with Autistic people in a positive and meaningful way.

The training offers an insight into the many ways we as people can communicate with each other regardless of differences in 'language' or communication methods.

Course includes

- Discuss current thinking around Autism
- Interactive session with chance for staff to ask questions in a non-judgmental environment.
- Challenging myths and preconceptions
- Be aware of how Autistic people process information
- Understand what can cause an Autistic person to be anxious and how to support them
- Barriers Autistic people face in a world that mostly excludes Autistic people

Autism in the Workplace

For most Autistic people, finding work is a real challenge. When an Autistic person does manage to find work, staying in work can be equally as challenging.

Our training is delivered by Autistic people as well as being designed by them.

It aims to help employers and employees working alongside an Autistic person create an inclusive and welcoming workplace. It explores the ways to harnesses the full potential that someone with Autism can bring to the workplace.

Course includes

- Discuss current thinking around Autism
- Understand why people with Autism might get into difficulties in work
- Recognise potential causes of anxiety within the workplace
- Develop an inclusive workplace by implementing reasonable adjustments
