

Learning by Doing Together Project

We are CHANGE, a national disabled led organisation working for equal rights for all people with learning disabilities.

We employ people with learning disabilities to co lead on all of our work.

At CHANGE we are working in partnership with the University of Leeds on a very exciting project about employment.

We are working together with service providers on this 2 year project funded by DRILL.

The service providers working with us will be employing people with learning disabilities to be peer support workers.

CHANGE will be delivering training to people with learning disabilities on applying for jobs, job skills and the role of peer support workers.

People with learning disabilities will be asked their opinions throughout the research and they will be designing the job roles.

Do you want to work with us to think about how to get more people with learning disabilities employed?

We strongly believe that people with learning disabilities should be employed in our own services (for example, health services).

We are the experts in our own lives and have a unique set of knowledge and skills that would benefit the services that have been created for us.

Do you know if people with learning disabilities are employed in co delivering and co developing their own services, in your area?

Get in touch! We'd love to hear from you!
